RUEDY BUILDING TO BE COMPLETED BY JULY 1ST. STRICTLY UP-TO-DATE

EYMANN-GOERZ FIRM TO MOVE TO NEW QUARTERS ABOUT JULY 1st

SPACIOUS SHOW WINDOWS

Investment of Twenty Thousand Dollars Gives Upland a Building With Decided Metropolitan Lines

As July 1st approaches, the new Ruedy building, representing an investment of twenty thousand dollars, nears completion and Messrs. Eymann and Goerz, of the Eymann-Goerz Hardware Company, which will occupy the lower floor, are mapping out their plans for the arrangement of one of the most modern and strictly up-to-date hardware stores that ever graced a country town.

Under the direction of J. C. Stocker, who not only drew the plans of the building, but directed its erection as well, Chas. Ruedy has a building which ranks far ahead of any other building in the city and gives to Upland's business street a decidedly metropolitan air. The plate glass front with a paneled background for the show windows, runs the entire width of the building, the plate being held in place by German silver stops. Above the plate glass sheet prism set in lead adds greatly to the general appearance, while with marble base beneath the glass, an air of decided quality pervades the entire front.

The pillars on either side of the front are of enameled pressed brick of white inlaid with an attractive colored brick, while the second story front is of pressed white brick overhung by a most attractive cornice.

The main floor entrance to the store is most inviting with its double doors, tile flooring in which has been attractively woven the letter "R," which stands for the name of the man who had the initiative to demonstrate to the people of the city that he had confidence in the future of the city, and largely through the move of Mr. Ruedy in erecting this building is Upland enjoying a building activity today which ranks with that of the year 1912, for fully a dozen homes and buildings are under construction at this time.

The new Eymann-Goerz Hardware Co. Store is to have a floor space, including the balconies, of 10,600 square feet and with the immense stock of this firm, displayed so that the purchaser may fully appreciate the value of strictly up-to-date hardware, plumbing, bathroom fixtures and a hundred and one things which go to make for convenience, Messrs. Eymann and Goerz believe that the buying public will be highly pleased with the new store.

Second Story

The second floor is to be occupied by Drs. Abbott and Farmer, who will have most attractive and inviting offices. Dr. Abbott has long been located in the Slico building, but believes that his patients will appreciate greatly the change, and knows that his work will be much easier in the new location.

Dr. Farmer, who is to practice dentistry here, will occupy the other suite of offices and will install office fixtures of a strictly modern type.

July 1st is the probable moving day for the Eymann-Goerz Co., as well as for Drs. Abbott and Farmer, and the Klindt Grocery will move from its present location, Mr. Klindt having recently purchased the building, now occupied by the Eymann-Goerz Co. and the Roy Creighton garage.

COUNTING THE MONEY

A count of the gold in the state treasury was made June 16th by the state board of control. The amounts on hand were: Gold, $4,509,090; silver, $4,232,900; nickels, $74,990; currency, $2,590; gold certificates, $1,300,000. There is on deposit in the banks of the state subject to call $9,243,665. State Treasurer Friend W. Richardson says the finances of the state are in good condition and that the state is making deposits in banks as fast as applications are received. Next month franchise tax payments will begin to come in.

PRESBYTERIANS ENJOY ANNUAL PICNIC

PRESBYTERIANS DEDICATE CANYON HOME TODAY AT ANNUAL PICNIC

Delightful Day Enjoyed by Members and Officers of Sunday School at 'Canyon Home' Located Above Camp Baldy

Today was a red letter occasion for the members of the Presbyterian Sunday school, for the mountain camp, 'Canyon Home' was dedicated. About a hundred and fifty persons enjoyed the day at Canyon Home. The advance guard, chaperoned by Miss Clara Bissell and Miss Laura Rice reached camp yesterday. This morning the six o'clock Euclid avenue car carried a capacity crowd. The car was met at San Antonio Heights by the Camp Baldy stages, and a number of private automobiles and the happy crowd was within easy walking distance of Canyon Home. Others went on the next cars, and found automobiles ready to help them on the road.

A number of persons have contributed much to make possible the camp and equipment on the Presbyterian grounds, but the chief credit for the splendid enterprise belongs to Rev. R. C. Stone, who first conceived the idea of establishing a permanent camp in the canyon, and who has worked strenuously for months in the carrying out of the plan. The list of those who have helped financially, or with labor, is a long one, and the thanks of the church and community is cordially extended to all. The grounds are for the use of all lovers of nature, and it is expected that from year to year an increasing number of people will enjoy Canyon Home.

Brief dedication services were held this afternoon, and most of the hikers are returning this evening, by way of Camp Baldy stage, automobiles and on foot. It is expected that during the summer many camping parties will take advantage of the cool springs and the mountain trails of Canyon Home.

FLORIDA EXCHANGE PRESENTS FIGURES

D. A. Field, of the O. K. Fruit Exchange, furnishes the following interesting figures published by the Florida Citrus Exchange:

Orange trees in bearing and coming into bearing in Florida 4,000,000; non-bearing 1,000,000; total acreage 71,430.

Grapefruit trees in bearing 2,500,000; non-bearing 2,000,000; total acreage 64,444.

Total acreage of oranges and grapefruit 135,874, based on an average of 70 trees to the acre.

Quite a large number of both bearing orange trees and bearing grapefruit trees in cluded in the bearing trees shown have had their first picking during the season just closed.

There was shipped from Florida for the season ending May 27th 17,566 cars of oranges and tangerines and 5,529 cars of grapefruit. Florida has increased her shipments since the season of 1903 and 1904 from 1,950,828 boxes to 9,571,000 for the season of 1914-1915.

The Florida Exchange has made much greater headway in expansion of markets during the past season than has ever been accomplished by them in any one season. Their representatives in 87 districts sold fruit in carload lots in 251 cities and towns in the United States and Canada.

Mr. Field calls attention to the fact that the California Fruit Growers Exchange, through its eastern representatives, has supplied 627 cities in the United States and Canada with carlot shipments of Florida citrus fruits this season, which goes to show that the carlot distribution of Sunkist fruits is not only in the large cities but in almost every large town in the country.

"HOME EFFICIENCY" BY A MERE MAN

JOHN MORROW GIVES EXCELLENT PAPER BEFORE EL CAMINO REAL CLUB

"Efficiency in the Home" Subject and With Flashes of Droll Humor He Impresses His Hearers With His Ability

El Camino Real club wound up its year Tuesday night at the Chaffey library with a fine meeting which was designated as ladies' night and many men and women were present to enjoy the affair. The program for the second half of the year has been devoted to "Efficiency" and Tuesday night "Efficiency in Our Home Life" was the particular problem under discussion.

John B. Morrow opened the discussion with a brilliant paper. Mr. Morrow is president of the Upland Chamber of Commerce and has an orange and lemon ranch at Euclid avenue and Fifteenth street. He was a newspaper man at one time and his carefully prepared paper was presented with felicitous expression. Although going into the subject seriously and presenting the problem from many angles, his frequent flashes of droll humor drew hearty applause from his auditors. Mr. Morrow discussed the personal phase primarily. He said the foundation of home efficiency is in the proper management of the couple and their mutual obligations. He drew a sharp distinction between housekeeping and home-making, although interrelated closely a happily wedded couple could make an efficient home in a cave, a hollow tree or wherever they chose. He said the home was made for man—in the generic sense—not man for the home.

Following Mr. Morrow's fine introduction to the subject, practically all the members and many of the ladies present took part in the discussion. A large number of useful ideas came forth in the various informal talks given from personal experience of the listeners.

President W. A. Flske, Vice President J. W. Groves and Secretary and Treasurer L. W. Cushman, who have given an exemplification of "Efficiency in the Club," were unanimously re-elected for another year. Enjoyable refreshments were served by the committee, but the interest in the discussion was so great it was kept up during the discussion of the menu. The meeting closed a most interesting and profitable year, the sessions to be resumed next fall.

C. F. TROELLER RESUMES BUSINESS HERE

Back to his first love might apply to C. F. Troeller, for last week he purchased the same business, occupying the same location, that he once conducted here, where he "went back to the land" for a short time only.

The furniture store, both new and second hand, was last week purchased of Mr. Ellis by Mr. Troeller and he will conduct the business along the lines established by him several years ago. An ad in another column will be found which contains something interesting to readers.

CITRUS GROWERS NEED PROTECTION

The citrus growers of California have learned during the past few years to appreciate the fact that they can expect nothing in the way of protection except at the hands of the Republican party. Ketter, the Democrat who misrepresents this district, and who was elected solely because he is a good fellow, promised he would do his best to secure a tariff on lemons, and there is no question but what he tried, but his party does not believe in protection, and he knew that he could do nothing.

The fact of the matter is that the Democrats do not want to give the citrus growers protection. They are more interested in the 2,000,000 Italian votes.

A few weeks ago Senator Works introduced an amendment to the sugar bill that would have added a cent a pound to the tariff on lemons, and what did the Democrats do with that amendment? Just one Democrat, Senator Phelan of California, voted in favor of protection for lemons.

ESTABLISHES GRADE ON MOUNTAIN AVE. AND NINETEENTH ST. AT MEETING

LONG ORDINANCE AND RESOLUTIONS TAX READING CAPACITY OF CLERK

TO MEET ON MONDAYS

Council Evidently Objects to More Cuts in Sidewalks on Second Avenue. Present Entrenches to Be Closed

The city council met in an adjourned meeting on Monday evening the principle business being that of passing Resolution No. 243, which changes the grade of Mountain avenue and the first reading of Ordinance No. 144, which establishes the grade of Nineteenth street from Euclid avenue east to the east city limits. Clerk Fuller was a very busy man that evening while Street Superintendent Froehde was checking the grades as they were read. Resolution No. 243 appears in another column of this issue of The News, while Ordinance No. 144 will appear in the next issue.

Commencing next Monday evening the city council will hold its meeting at the city hall on the second and fourth Mondays of the month. This change was made that the members of the city council, as well as the city employees, might attend prayer meeting on Wednesday evenings, if they so desired, and that those attending prayer meeting might transact business before the city council and not interfere with their attendance at church service.

Wanted Driveway

Mrs. John Rarick appeared before the city council asking for the privilege to cut an entrance in the sidewalk entering the building just north of the Nazarene church on Second avenue where she will conduct a garage business. Councilmen were evidently against the idea because of the danger to pedestrians through automobiles passing over the sidewalk, but they agreed to have the street committee look into the matter and report at the next meeting. The closing up of the entrances over the sidewalk on Second avenue south of Ninth street was discussed and the street committee will decide as to that procedure at the same time.

MUSICAL TRIO AT COLONIAL FRIDAY

With the idea of giving patrons of the theatre a special treat, Manager Whitmoyer of the Colonial has arranged to bring the Orpheus Concert Trio, three young ladies of exceptional musical ability, who give a delightful hour's entertainment of vocal and instrumental music and readings, to his theatre tomorrow (Friday) evening only.

Instrumental numbers by the trio of piano, violin and cornet; solos and duets, both vocal and instrumental, and two readings, one dramatic and one in comedy vein, make up the program.

The trio is well known throughout the country, having very successfully appeared in concert and Chautauqua work for a number of years. A special program of motion pictures has been received which will also be shown. The Hobart Bosworth feature, "The White Scar," previously announced for both Friday and Saturday will be shown Saturday night only.

HORRID THING

The lady jury had been out for hours. The judge looked tired, the clerk yawned, the loungers slept.

The bailiff, after listening at the keyhole several times, shook his head with a discouraged air.

And then, quite unexpectedly, the jury announced it was ready to report, and the 12 ladies filed in.

"Have you agreed upon a verdict?" the judge demanded.

The forelady smiled.

"We have agreed upon 12 verdicts, your honor," she told him, in her flute-like voice.

"You are discharged," roared the judge.

Isn't he horrid!" said the ladies.

PAVLOWA IN HER WONDERFUL DANCE

PAVLOWA IN HER FAMOUS DANCES TO APPEAR AT THE COLONIAL

"The Dumb Girl of Portici" With Pavlowa in Leading Role to Be Offered Here With Special Musical Accompaniment

Four hundred dollars an hour—$66.66 per minute—$1.11 per second! Can you make that much money?

That's what Pavlowa, "the incomparable," the world's most famous dancer and pantomimist, received while making her only motion picture, "The Dumb Girl of Portici," which is to be shown at the Colonial for three performances next Monday and Tuesday.

With Pavlowa in the production are her entire "corps de ballet" of wonderful dancers, and one of the most noted and capable casts of actors ever used in a photoplay.

The greatest single feature of the play is, of course, Pavlowa's dancing, which is shown beautifully and in great detail. However, this is far from being its only claim to distinction.

The story itself, that of a beautiful young fishing girl, who, though unable to speak, and after being terribly wronged by a young nobleman, is still able to lead a successful revolt against her country's persecuting tyrant of a ruler, is one of very exceptional dramatic strength and human appeal. It is also very thrilling at times, and always beautiful and magnificent. Pavlowa's acting, too, is of a very surprising excellence.

A specially arranged musical accompaniment, which perfectly blends with every dance and every action of the story, has been secured from New York, and will be played by an excellent orchestra under Fred Wilding's direction. It is confidently expected that this musical setting will be the finest and most enjoyable yet presented locally.

One performance only will be given each evening, beginning at eight, and a matinee Tuesday at two-thirty.

Reserved seats are now being sold at the Upland Pharmacy and at the Colonial.

THE RARICK GARAGE IN NEW QUARTERS

The Rarick Garage was this week moved from its former location in the building just south of the Dr. Craig residence to the building purchased by Mrs. Rarick just north of the Nazarene church on Second avenue. The garage is to be known as Harold Rarick's Garage and will not only do a general repair business, but will carry a complete line of accessories as well as gasoline and oils. An ad in another column will prove interesting.

In the early days of the automobile John Rarick, father of Harold Rarick, erected the building and conducted a garage there and this is one of the reasons why Mrs. Rarick purchased the building, as well as its excellent location in the heart of the business center.

RODEO AND WILD WEST AT VENICE

Sunday, July 2d, at 2 p. m., Thos. H. Ince's much advertised Rodeo and Wild West show will open its first engagement in the Race Through the Clouds enclosure at Venice.

The world's champion horsemen, broncho busters, ranchmen, plainsmen, rough riders and sharpshooters representing the greatest talent in the world, will be seen in action. The Race Through the Clouds enclosure is the most ideal spot for the event, having a seating capacity for 15,000, as well as one of the most natural settings obtainable for a Rodeo. The story of the play that surrounds the Rodeo has been written by Charles F. Miller of the Culver City studio, and he will personally direct the entire production. The entire Inceville camp will take part in the event, as well as hundreds of entries from the other picture camps and from the ranches.

The Rodeo will last three days, two performances each day, at 2 and 7:30 p. m. A Wild West parade with the many unique features will parade on Windward avenue

ELKS OF COLONY APPLY FOR CHARTER

UPLAND, ONTARIO AND CUCAMONGA ELKS PLAN TO ESTABLISH LODGE

Lodge Building Near Chaffey Union High School Is Present Plan. Will Have Seventy Members to Start

Upland, Cucamonga and Ontario Elks have applied for a charter for a lodge here and have held several preliminary meetings full of interest, at which plans for the local lodge were formulated. The new lodge will start out with almost two hundred charter members. There are seventy-five Elks in the three communities who belong to Elk lodges in the East. There are many more who have their application in for membership bringing the total members of the proposed new lodge to a high figure.

The preliminary meeting of Elks from Ontario, Upland and Cucamonga was held last Friday night at the Chamber of Commerce building, J. F. Sawyer of Upland presided and R. F. Purvis acted as secretary. There was a large attendance and interesting addresses by Supervisor Jeff Kincaid, T. C. Davidson, general baggage agent for the Salt Lake route, and many others.

It was decided, if the charter application is granted, to build a $15,000 home here. E. V. Caldwell of Ontario, J. W. Mehl of Upland and P. C. Davidson of Ontario were appointed a committee to meet with the Elks of the three communities at Upland next Friday to submit plans for location, building and organization.

The presiding officers of last Friday night, J. F. Sawyer and R. F. Purvis, the committee named above, and George Cable Monday night journeyed to Riverside to meet with Elks of that place to secure pointers on organization.

CAMP WILKIE PREPARED FOR Y.M.C.A.

County Secretary Maxwell reports that he has just returned from Camp Wilkie, Catalina Island, where he spent four days in setting up the camp and otherwise getting things in readiness for the summer.

Thirteen tents are to accommodate the boys who attend, and the big commissary quarters will be well supplied with good things to eat. The beach and grounds where the camp is located were never in better condition than this year, thus everything points to the greatest camp in our history.

Camping is an experience that every boy looks forward to with great delight. The right kind of a camp gives to the average boy the opportunity for an outing plus a character building experience which is often life-long in its effects.

Thousands of men and boys look back upon their life at Y. M. C. A. camps and realize that much of their success is due to the helpful influence of such a camp.

The success or failure of a boys' camp depends upon leadership rather than upon expensive equipment. The aim is to secure the highest type of leadership. The camp is under the direction of two county secretaries, E. M. Brown of Orange county and A. H. Maxwell of San Bernardino county. With them will be associated an able corps of leaders who will help direct the activities of the camp.

One hundred boys can be accommodated in the camp, thus putting a limit on the two counties to fifty boys from each county. Mr. Maxwell says that at the rate the applications are coming in the limit will be reached long before time to go, which is July 3d. Therefore any parents who desire information regarding the camp should get in touch with him at once, and send in the application, thus guarding against disappointments.

REPUBLICANS WILL NAME DELEGATES TO CONVENTION HELD JUNE 27TH

IMPORTANT MEETING TO BE HELD IN RUEDY BLDG. ON SATURDAY NIGHT

TO SELECT 26 DELEGATES

Men and Women of Republican and Progressive Parties Urged to Attend Caucus to Name Delegates to Convention

Republicans of the city assembled last Saturday evening at the office of Judge Crane and formed a Hughes Fairbanks Republican Club and prepared for the coming campaign and for the selection of delegates to a county convention which is to be held in San Bernardino on Tuesday, June 27th.

On Saturday night, June 24th, in the assembly hall of the new Ruedy building, an old-fashioned Republican caucus is to be held at which time Republicans will select delegates to the county convention which in turn will select delegates to a district convention to be held at San Diego, July 1st, to name a candidate for congress from the Eleventh district.

Republicans of the entire city and the San Antonio Heights district are urged to attend as this is especially important to every fruit grower and the district as a whole.

The date is next Saturday, June 24th, at 7:30 p. m. in the second story of the new Ruedy building.

The organization of the Hughes-Fairbanks club resulted in the choice of C. V. Lambrigger as chairman, E. C. Mehl as secretary and J. R. Bradley as vice chairman. A long list of men signed the organization papers, and all Republicans and Progressives are asked to join the club. The ladies of the city are asked to attend the meeting Saturday night, as it is just as important that they attend as that the men be there.

To the county convention, Upland, Monte Vista and San Antonio will name 26 delegates.

Ontario and Mountain View will select 62.

Chino and Rincon will select 28.

Cucamonga has 15 delegates.

Elwanda has four, Barstow names 7, and Needles 18.

All other precincts, because they are remote from other precincts, will caucus separately and name the delegates.

Proxies will be acknowledged in the convention if executed on the official form as provided with the notice.

The call is issued in the name of the committee of 19, made up jointly of men prominent in both parties, and which includes: William Guthrie, San Bernardino, chairman; W. F. Grow, Highland; W. M. Thadde, Redlands; Earl W. Paul, Upland; O. G. Crawford, Colton; Isaac Jones, Ontario; Thomas Ogden, Redlands; Grant Holcomb, San Bernardino; C. M. Crow, Chino; R. L. Riley, Colton, Secretary.

The call for the caucus has been sent to committeemen in every precinct in the county.

REVIVAL MEETINGS TO BE HELD UNDER TENT

Commencing Friday, June 30th, at 7:30 p. m., there will be gospel tent meetings held in a tent to be placed at the corner of Second avenue and F street.

The meetings are under the direction of the local Nazarene church and Evangelists E. A. Lewis of Chicago and E. S. Mathews of Fossil, Oregon, who will sing as well as preach the gospel.

Rev. Nerry is now completing arrangements for the meetings and states that there will be meetings every afternoon at 2:30 except on Monday and every evening at 7:30. Sunday meetings will be held at 10:30 a. m., 2:30 and 7:30 p. m.

GETTING OUT OF A HOLE

"I have come," said the old subscriber, "to complain about your report of my daughter's wedding."

"What's the matter with it?" demanded the editor.

"Well, her name is Gratia, but you printed it 'Gratis.'"

"That's not so bad. She was given away, wasn't she?"

THURSDAY, JUNE 22, 1916

THE platform of the Republican party is an American document. Its essence, substance and purpose is Americanism and nothing else. There is no taint of pro-Allyism or pro-Germanism upon it; the only hyphen in it is pro-American. This platform is absolutely neutral in that it stands for American rights as Americans define those rights and as they are defined by the laws of nations.

It hints of no "alliances," "entangling" or otherwise; it prates of no "duty to humanity" that must involve us in the quarrels of our neighbors; it doesn't quibble over the "causes" of existing conditions; it doesn't seek to differentiate the right or the wrong of that which concerns us only as the effect is detrimental to our interests or impinges on our rights and liberties; it rises far above the tumult and the shouting into the clear atmosphere of reason, justice and equity; it is straightforward and unequivocal in every sentence, and it defines Americanism in terms that every American can approve and loyally support.

For the protection of the country and the maintenance of the principles which it formulates it offers an "adequate but thorough and complete national defense, ready for any emergency," specifying "a sufficient and effective regular army and a provision for ample reserves, already drilled and disciplined, who can be called to the colors when the hour of danger comes;" and "a navy so strong and so well proportioned and equipped, so thoroughly ready and prepared, that no enemy can gain command of our sea and effect a landing in force on either our western or our eastern coast."

And that this is no collection of idle words hastily assembled to meet the insistent demand of far-sighted and patriotic Americans or to cater to a popular outcry, is amply demonstrated in the congressional action of the Republican minority whose amendment to the naval program authorizes the construction of two dreadnaughts and six battle cruisers with the necessary submarine aircraft auxiliaries and increased personnel; a program that was opposed and diminished to practical impotence by the Democratic administration now in power.

There is no word in the Republican platform that speaks of fortifying the nation's first line of defense with a navy "second to the most powerful navy afloat" the Republican platform clearly and explicitly urges a first-power navy that shall be competent to meet an enemy and defeat him in an assault on our western or our eastern coast.

Warring Europe has forced the declaration of this belligerent Americanism; warring Europe has taught us that no "preparedness" is effectual unless it includes the power of offense as well as that of defense; it is not enough that our first line of defense shall be able to hold an enemy at bay—it must be powerful enough to destroy the enemy, to the end that he shall not again force us to defend ourselves.

Our "preparedness" and the American policy of preserving the peace of the American people.

Equally firm and unambiguous are the declarations of the Republican platform in the matter of domestic policy.

It was merely necessary to reaffirm the Republican policy of tariff protection, coupled with the promise that under a Republican administration the inadequate and incompetent Underwood tariff of the Democrats shall be repealed and a measure substituted that shall in peace as in war produce ample revenue and give reasonable protection to all forms of American production and industry.

It will not, under a Republican tariff, be necessary to resort to a makeshift provision to muddle our commercial relations by segregating the imports that may be "dumped" from those which must not be "dumped."

In its tariff section the Republican platform recognizes the fatuous attempt of Democratic statesmanship to compromise this American policy by conceding the right of Americans to prohibit free trade in some products of foreign import.

The Republican platform provides for the conservatism of American business interests while emphasizing the necessity of reasonable and just regulation of those interests for the common welfare it denounces the democratic method of subordinating all business to federal generalization involving the government with private enterprises with which the government has no legitimate concern, undertaking to visit punishment for violation of the laws upon entire classes of business for the sins of individuals—a policy that has done more for the detriment of the internal commerce and industry of the country than could have been inflicted by unrestrained license by the most powerful of the corporate business interests of the nation.

The platform advocates the only course that may be pursued for the upbuilding, encouragement and maintenance of an American marine now virtually destroyed by the narrow, short-sighted policies of a Democratic administration.

Liberal compensation to American ships for actual government service is advocated, and the Democratic proposition of government ownership of vessels is strenuously opposed, for the reason that while such ownership effectively prevents the development of an American merchant marine by private capital it will be entirely unable to provide for the vast volume of American freight in competition with foreign syndicates and government-subsidized fleets manned by the cheapest labor in the world.

Not the least important of the Republican formulas for the government of a country now very badly governed, is the demand for and the promise of a closer and more business-like economy in the administration of public affairs.

The Republican party in its platform perceives the daily increasing need for a more expert scrutiny of government expenditures, a more careful regard for the waste of the public money, and for a better system of keeping the government accounts.

The platform pledges a Republican administration to the institution of an efficient and comprehensive budget whereby not only can the income and expenditures of the government be checked and balanced, but wherein the people themselves may observe where their money is going.

There can be no real reform in the administration of national finances until the budget is introduced as part of the economic regime of the country and made the basis of all departmental or general appropriations.

Millions have been and are being wasted for lack of this simple device; and in no particular is the wasteful conservatism of the American government more apparent.

In view of the fact that every other government in the world operates its financial policies upon the information of the budget, it would seem as if this government had deliberately refrained from measuring its expenditures to the volume of its income, in fear, perhaps, that the check of the budget balances would also check the profit of avaricious office holders and the greed of political parasites fattening upon the substance of a tax-oppressed people.

There is no doubt whatever that with the imposition of the Democratic tariff and the refusal of a Democratic administration to adopt the budget system for gauging the expenditures of the government within reasonable economic limits, the country would have been in dire straits by this time had it not been for the fortuitous stimulation of national production by the European war.

The Republican platform promises this economic reform and the opportunity for its fulfillment will save to the American people millions of money now wasting in the support of useless enterprises and going to the enrichment of politicians powerful enough to influence Democratic legislation at Washington.

The Republican platform commends itself not only to the sane and patriotic Americanism of Americans, but it is a complete charter for the safeguarding of American interests in every direction. It is forceful in the simplicity of its structure and convincing in the directness of its purposes.

It is a pledge backed by the sincerity and integrity of a great party that has never yet failed in its obligations and its recorded promise.

Its appeal is entirely to the reason of thinking citizens, and its whole purpose is the redemption and safety of the American people.—San Diego Tribune.

MAYBE you have a cynic in your employ. You can spot him with your hands tied behind you and your eyes shut. He has the blues without reason, is depressed without cause, from Monday morning until Saturday night. He will tell you that he always gets the worst of it from everybody, that his efforts are not appreciated nor his talents recognized, and fill you full of a heap of nonsense like that and, if you are not careful you will begin to believe him and get that way yourself.

After the cynic has been blue a certain length of time he reaches the brooding stage, and any man that broods over real or fancied wrongs is as dangerous as "the lean and hungry Cassius." He is not sane; the outside world is mirrored through a faulty glass, and 99 times out of 100 he is a poor workman, whether he digs a ditch or manages a business.

Why? Just because he thinks too much about what other people think of him and is so afraid that somebody else is going to be shown preferment over him that he hasn't time to do his work the way it ought to be done.

He deliberately destroys his own efficiency and chances of success, and the very misfortunes that he imagines will some day fall to his lot actually come to him and all through his own doings.

Then he goes about among his friends and snarls out his woes and worries, till everyone begins to feel that the world would be better off without him.

Keep the haunting spirit of pessimism and despondency out of your heart and remember that the world has no time to listen to troubles, for everyone has troubles of his own, and the chances are that a good many have a great deal heavier burden to bear than you have.—San Bernardino Index.

ALL HAIL the barbers of St. Louis, Missouri! It's seldom, if ever, that a barber becomes famous, but those tonsorial artists of St. Louis are barbers among millions of them, for it remained for those knights of the razor to suggest to Charles E. Hughes, Republican nominee for the presidency, that he remove his whiskers. That his whiskers are likely to lessen his chance of election has been demonstrated right here, for a woman voter was heard to remark the other day, "Has that man Hughes a bunch of whiskers? Well, I certainly won't vote for him now." Therefore it is now up to Charles Evans Hughes and Editor C. D. Bell of the Claremont Courier to have said brush removed as scenery for their facial expression. The wearer of whiskers claims as an excuse that he catches cold without them, but the shaven man claims that the whiskers carry cold germs with the result that everybody else catches cold. In days long since gone by, the man with a VanDyke beard and a Prince Albert coat was supposed to be a man among men, but as time goes on it becomes very evident that the man who said, "You can't tell by the looks of a frog how far he can jump," contains more truth than any other sentence with the same number of words. Therefore the man with the soup-straining whiskers is taboo.

IF all the world were perfect, an intolerable sameness would be stamped upon humanity from one end of the earth to the other. "For the love of God," some one has exclaimed, "let me retain my defects! That is the only thing I really have." Moreover, there are some really quite captivating human defects. But it is important to control them so that they may never become obnoxious.—Anatole Le Braz in Outlook.

CHARLES WARREN FAIRBANKS

Charles Warren Fairbanks, former vice president of the United States, is a native of Ohio, but came to Indianapolis in 1874, shortly after his marriage to Miss Cornelia Cole, daughter of Judge P. B. Cole of Marysville, Ohio.

Mr. Fairbanks was born on a farm near Unionville Center, Union county, Ohio, in May, 1852, being a son of Loretan M. and Mary A. (Smith) Fairbanks, natives respectively of Vermont and New York state, but who emigrated to Ohio in the thirties.

The father of Charles W. Fairbanks was a wagon maker by trade, but later took to farming. Youth and early manhood were passed by the future vice president in assisting with the work on the farm and attending the district school. Later he entered the Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware, which graduated him in 1872, when he was 20 years of age.

Once an Editor

During his senior year young Fairbanks edited the "Western Collegian," the college newspaper, and prior to his graduation he began the study of law. Early in 1874 he was admitted to the bar.

Soon after establishing himself in the practice of law in Indianapolis, Mr. Fairbanks became an active factor in the welfare of the city and state. Although always an unswerving advocate of the doctrines of the republican party and often solicited to enter politics, Mr. Fairbanks for many years shunned public life, preferring to devote his energies in a private way to the advancement of enterprises for public welfare and the improvement of conditions of general mankind.

He served as a trustee of Ohio Wesleyan university for many years, and was an active director of the Consumers' Gas company of Indianapolis, which eventually brought about a reduction in fuel rates of nearly 100 per cent.

Mr. Fairbanks came into the limelight as an orator early in life and delivered many addresses before literary clubs and societies, universities and public assemblies. His speeches on "Nihilism" and "Paternalism of Government" attracted widespread attention.

In 1892 he was induced to accept the chairmanship of the republican state convention and he delivered an address which was published as he was made the unanimous choice of the republicans for United States senator. He was a staunch supporter of William McKinley until McKinley's death.

At the eleventh republican national convention at St. Louis in June, 1896, Mr. Fairbanks was made chairman of the committee on resolutions and read the platform which emphasized allegiance to the policy of protection as the "bulwark of industrial independence and the foundation of American industrial development and prosperity," as based on "the American market for the American producer" through taxation of foreign products and "upholding the American standard of wages for American workmen."

In 1904 Mr. Fairbanks was elected to the vice presidency. In 1908 he was presented by his friends for the presidential nomination, and, although defeated, he was the only candidate who had behind him the solid support of his own state, besides which he received votes from a larger number of states than any other candidate except the nominee of the convention.

Upon retirement from the vice presidency in 1909, Mr. Fairbanks accompanied by his wife, made a tour of the world.

Upon his return to his home town of Indianapolis in 1910, he was greeted by a tremendous popular ovation.

One can't blame a liar for doubting nearly every tale he hears.

The accomplishment of all planned tasks, whether great or small, depends on how you shape your moments.

Seconds evolve into minutes, minutes into hours, and hours into days.

If given time to accomplish a task without interruption—it is easy.

But who is it that is not interrupted? The housewife, the business man, the office man, the rancher, all have two or more things to perform at the same time.

To save steps, mental disturbance; to accomplish results and reduce the minor details of daily routine—make the Telephone be your servant; you have no right to spend a portion of the day to accomplishing a certain task when it can be handled in a few moments by the use of the Telephone.

NEW LAND OFFICE
FOR EL CENTRO

Passage by the senate of the Kettner house bill to erect and establish a new land district in Southern California, with an office at El Centro, will have no effect on the political fortunes of Register Roche and receiver Mitchell of the local land office, it was stated yesterday, says the Times. But it will operate to the slight disadvantage of Los Angeles persons having government land in the new district, who will be compelled to go to El Centro to file annual or final proofs, and also to witnesses who must go from Los Angeles to El Centro to give testimony.

Under the present law those who have made entries of public land in the territory covered by the new district could make annual or final proofs before the county clerk of Imperial, Riverside, or San Diego counties and no trip for that purpose was necessary to Los Angeles. But under the new arrangement this cannot be done by Los Angeles entrymen for the reason that the clerk of the court is in another land district.

The new district will consist of all of Imperial county, and two townships along the eastern line of San Diego county. There were, on July 1, 1914, 7,994,019 acres of unappropriated public land within the Los Angeles land district, of which 961,459 acres are located in Imperial county alone. In other words, the vacant land in Imperial county constitutes one-sixth of the total in the local land district.

The area disposed of during the year ending June 30, 1914, within Imperial county, totaled 106,794 acres; the receipts from that county were $14,191, and there were 677 entries. The fees and commissions earned in the local land office are largely in excess of the $2500 each allowed by law to the register and receiver, in addition to salaries of $500 each.

As to geography, the land in the proposed new district, it is pointed out, is cut off by high mountains from the remainder of the Los Angeles land district in a practically rainless desert and subject to cultivation only through irrigation from the Colorado river. A vast amount of litigation has arisen on account of the uncertainty as to the early surveys made on the land.

The bill, now awaiting the signature of President Wilson, comes as a result, it is stated, of Congressman Kettner having promised to have a new land office created in Imperial county. There will be nothing done, however, until congress makes an appropriation for the support of the office, and it may be a year or more before the office is in operation.

B. H. Lien, who was a candidate for the Los Angeles registrarship, will not be a candidate for appointment in the new office, when officially established, it is stated.

The only effect in the Los Angeles office will be a cutting down of the work, and the removal of several of the clerks to El Centro.

MANY BRIDGES BEING BUILT BY SANTA FE

Plans for permanent concrete or steel bridges to replace temporary structures over southland streams were made public Monday by the Santa Fe. In most cases the permanent structures will replace the pile or span bridges that were either washed out or weakened during the floods of last winter.

Four new bridges will be built by the Santa Fe on its San Diego line. Near Anaheim the road will be rebuilt a structure washed out by high water. The bridge will consist of three 80-foot girders on concrete abutments and piers. Steel will be furnished by the American Bridge company.

The Santa Fe is also constructing new bridges over the Santa Margarita and San Luis Rey rivers to replace those washed out by high water. The bridge over the Santa Margarita river will consist of four 165-foot deck girder spans on four concrete piers and concrete abutments. The contract for the substructure has been awarded to the Sharp & Fellows Construction company, Los Angeles, and the contract for the steel to the American Bridge company. Work on the foundation has just begun, and the erection of the superstructure will be done by the Santa Fe's own forces.

The bridge over the San Luis Rey river will consist of four 100-foot steel spans on concrete piers and abutments. The Sharp & Fellows Construction company has the contract for the substructure and the American Bridge company is furnishing the steel. Erection work will be done by the railroad's own forces.

This road also contemplates the construction of a bridge over Trabuco creek, near San Juan Capistrano, in place of a bridge destroyed by high water. The work involves the erection of two 90-foot girder spans, the filling of 680 feet of trestle, and the construction of concrete abutments and one concrete pier. A 650-foot pile and timber dike will also be built to protect the structure. The improvements have not yet been formally authorized, but if carried out will cost about $50,000.

Kirk-Milligan—
The marriage of L. N. Kirk, secretary of the J. J. Atwood Co., of this city, and Miss Alameda Milligan occurred at San Diego at the home of Rev. Crabtree, on Wednesday, June 14th, at 3:30 p. m., the Rev. Crabtree officiating.

Friends of the bride who had made all arrangements for the wedding, were the witnesses of the ceremony. Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Kirk spent the week attending the exposition and various other points of interest about San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirk arrived here from San Diego on Sunday evening, going immediately to their home, which Mr. Kirk recently rebuilt in preparation for the coming event. One room in the home was most peculiarly furnished and on investigation it developed that fellow members of the Upland Fire Department had decided that as Mr. Kirk surprised them by getting married they would somewhat surprise him.

Edith Cavell Chapter—
The sewing circle in connection with the Edith Cavell Chapter will meet at the residence of Mrs. Lydia Drew, 324 North Euclid avenue on the afternoon of Friday, June 23, at 2 o'clock.

D. of U. S. Club—
Mrs. Earl Maurer was hostess on Tuesday afternoon to the D. of U. S. Club. A most enjoyable afternoon was spent. The house was tastefully decorated with daisies and carnations, the afternoon being spent with sewing and fancy work. Miss Anna Hart of Los Angeles rendered some excellent piano selections. The following guests testify to the ability of the hostess: Mesdames A. Dinger, Theresia Reimer, Harry Strunk, A. Teague, P. Anderson, J. D. Mitchell, C. W. Dickerman, J. H. Newman, S. Tucker, A. C. Hart, Thos. W. Allen, and Misses Anna Saeger, Mary Hart, Ollie Skinner and Anna Hart.

Shower Bride-to-Be—
As a pretty compliment to Miss Martha Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Hamilton, whose engagement to Russell Willingham of Upland was recently announced, Mrs. Lee Colburn charmingly entertained a number of the intimate friends of the bride-elect with a linen and china shower at the Colburn home, No. 579 Third avenue, Upland, last evening.

Red was the color note of the elaborate decorations, the table where the dainty supper was served being particularly attractive. Music added to the enjoyment of the evening and Mrs. Colburn proved herself an altogether charming hostess. Many beautiful gifts were showered on the bride-to-be.

Covers were laid for Miss Muriel Hamilton, Miss Ora Todd, Miss Katherine Todd, Miss Hilda Minter, Miss Ruth Vance, Miss Viola Polster, Miss Winnie Minter, Miss Helen Galloway, Miss Bessie Vance, Miss Constance Minter and Mrs. Colburn.

Merry Wives—
Mrs. J. M. Collins entertained the members of the Merry Wives Embroidery club and a number of invited guests delightfully on Friday afternoon of last week at her home on Second avenue. Fancy work and crocheting passed the time away very rapidly and at a late hour refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. W. C. Cline. The guests were Mrs. G. Aaron Brest, Mrs. D. D. Crew, Mrs. W. C. Cline, Mrs. W. B. Duncan, Mrs. Arthur H. Johnson, Mrs. Perry O. Long, Mrs. N. G. Pehl, Mrs. Evert B. Reynolds, Mrs. W. C. Reynolds, Mrs. Chas. M. Sikes, Mrs. Verner H. Wilson, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Lucy Stanton, Mrs. L. E. Alford, Mrs. C. C. Eymann, Mrs. Umstadt of Fort Collins, Colorado; Mrs. Trumbull of Los Angeles. Mrs. Crew will be hostess in two weeks, the next meeting following being the annual picnic.

June Lawn Fete—
Preparations for the June lawn fete, given by the Francis Paul girls, which is to take place on the city hall lawn the evening of the 29th, include a free entertainment during the intermission of the regular band concert on the same evening, and booths where candy will be sold, a cornucopia stand, and numerous small tables arranged around the lawn where ice cream and cake, coffee and doughnuts will be dispensed to the hungry all the evening. The Japanese motif will be carried out in the decorations. The proceeds are to go toward helping the tubercular of the community, with plans for a cottage in the near future.

If we can live
To make some pale face brighter and to give
A second luster to some tear-dimmed eye,
Or e'en impart
One thro' of comfort to an aching heart,
Or cheer some way-worn soul in passing by;
Our lives though bare
Perhaps of much that seemeth dear and fair
To us on earth, will not have been in vain."

Jolly Picnickers—
A crowd of girls went picnicking in Cucamonga canyon on Monday all day with Miss Maria Lindberg as chaperon. A very jolly time was had by the girls, including the chaperon, who were Misses Melvina Slugg, Etta Regan, Irma Roundtree, Thelma Sikes, Myra Roberts, Caro Duley and Josephine Smith.

And would you care if Johnnie came
To supper when we're through?
If Bill should pitch a dandy game
Can't I bring him home, too?
If Bill comes to the kitchen door
Won't you give him some pie,
So he'll be strong and curve 'em more?
Thanks, ma! Good-by! Good-by!

The silver lining is beginning to show along the edge of the cloud of depression. The investor has begun to realize that now is the opportune time to acquire an orange grove. There have been a few sales recently. I sold a fine grove on San Antonio avenue this week at a bargain. I have a special bargain this week that will not last long—a fine 40-acre grove of 8-year-old navels finely located with abundance of water, fine crop setting, at the unheard of price of $750 per acre. This is the greatest opportunity to acquire a first class property and make a profit of $10,000, as the property is absolutely a bargain at $1000 per acre. Form a syndicate and grab it, as it is surely quick money. Let us go over this with you.

O mother, can't I have some cake?
Can't Johnny have some pie?
Can't we come in—just us—and take
An apple by and by,
If we both wipe our feet off clean
The way you told us to?
And if we run across Bill Green
Can't Billy have one, too?

O mother, have you seen my hat,
The one I wear to play?
And, say, ma, wherd I put my hat
And ball the other day?
Can't Johnnie wear by other shoes
Till his own pair gets dry?
Do you care, mother, if we use
Your old broom by and by?

WHAT BECAME OF THE $140,000 SLUSH FUND?

ons, and just one Republican, LaFollette, the Wisconsin halfbreed, voted against it.

When Mr. Kettner starts making his campaign speeches, the citrus growers of Orange county want him to explain just what became of that $140,000 slush fund, raised by the Italian lemon importers in New York city. We want a little "pitiless publicity" as to just what became of that money.

After the $140,000 slush fund was raised, it developed that these importers of lemons from Sicily carried on a successful propaganda, whereby 2,000,000 Italian votes were turned to Woodrow Wilson in 1912.

S. S. Amarosa, second vice president of the importers' Union, in an interview in the New York Sun, frankly admits the raising of $140,000, but declares he does not know what became of the money or how much went into the Democratic campaign fund. Says Mr. Amarosa:

"We did raise a fund amounting in all to about $140,000, to have the tariff on Sicilian lemons reduced, and we did hire Mr. Beer to have it done. In the United States the importers, by paying five cents on a box of lemons imported, raised $105,000, and the Sicilian societies raised $35,000 more. Now that it is all over we are asked for $75,000 more."

"What has become of the $140,000? We do not know. We have repeatedly asked for an accounting and have not received it. We have demanded it and it has not been given to us. We are told to keep quiet, not to raise a row."

Mr. Beer talks as freely as the officers of the Importers' Union:

"I do not mind saying that beginning with 1910 we accomplished some mighty effective work."

The lemon growers of Southern California, who are complaining bitterly of the effects of the reduction of duty, at least have the satisfaction of learning how it was done and what it cost.

The citrus growers of Orange county will be satisfied this year to have a congressman who may perhaps be less of a "good fellow" and a little more representative of the district—to make it plain, they are going to be satisfied with nothing less than a real Republican who stands pat on the protective tariff.—Santa Ana Blade.

WHERE TO GO ON VACATION IS SUGGESTED BY AUTO CLUB

Have you planned your summer vacation? Motoring vacations are going to be more popular this year than ever, according to officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California, and that organization has issued a series of helpful hints to automobile owners along this line which show many new points of interest in and about Southern California.

Automobile club signposts will guide car owners to the majority of places included in the following list, but in case any additional data is required, the motorist is advised by Secretary S. L. Mitchell to call up the club's headquarters at 1344 South Figueroa street, or stop at any of the branch offices throughout the southern part of the state. Here are some suggestions for camping trips:

Cuyamaca Country (San Diego county)—This may be made a camping trip or the motorist may plan to stay at any of the hotels in the Cuyamaca mountains. These mountains reach their greatest height about 65 miles east of San Diego. Here is found the beautiful Cuyamaca lake, the road passing directly over the dam at its western end. Pine trees and heavy timber abound, and one of the most beautiful desert views in the world is had from a certain point on the route between Julian and the lake. Resorts are located at Pine Hills, Descanso, Alpine and Witch Creek, where accommodations may be secured. Leaving Los Angeles follow the regular coast road to San Diego and there secure information from the club's branch office in the chamber of commerce. This is an easy trip and well worth while.

San Bernardino Mountain Resorts—These are all easily reached by automobile. For Thousand Pines, Pine Crest, Knight's Camp and Pine Knot (the last two at Big Bear lake), the majority of motorists are leaving from Los Angeles by way of San Bernardino, Arrowhead and Waterman canyon over the famous Crest route. This is now in good condition. There are many camping places at Big Bear, in the timber regions, and there are also an excellent hotel and cottage accommodations.

Yosemite—This motoring playground is more wonderful this year than ever before, with greater leniency in the rules governing automobiles and the arrangements made for the entertainment of guests. President Fred L. Baker of the club reports from there that everything is more than pleasant and that automobile owners are assured of a good vacation in its bounds.

Grand Canyon of the Colorado—This is a pretentious two weeks' vacation, and is excellent for camping parties. Leaving Los Angeles the first stop may be made at Bartow, a distance of 141 miles, where accommodations may be secured or camp pitched. The next stop will be Needles, on the California line, a distance of 166 miles from Bartow, and following that the motorist may pitch his camp the third day at Ashforks, a distance of 192 miles from Needles. On the next day he will reach the Grand Canyon at El Tovar, a distance of eight-eight miles. Five days may be spent at the canyon and time allowed for the return journey so as to keep the vacation within the allotted two weeks. The return may be made via Grand View, Flagstaff, (Sunset Mountain and Cliff dwellers), thence to Williams, Ashforks and home. The roads are good, the worst being between Bartow and Needles, but no trouble will be encountered. An alternate route may be chosen by way of Oatman and Goldroads.

Craters Camp—This is a short trip near Los Angeles and suitable for week-ends. Follow the Craggs Country Club route and at the Craggs gate turn to the left, following all left-hand turns to the Craters.

ISSUES FOLDER

"Summer in California" is the title of a new illustrated folder is used by the Salt Lake Route, which describes briefly some of the noted resorts and tells exactly why the Southland, with a warm winter climate, is cool in summer.

The six reasons given for this remarkable equability of climate are: latitude, the Pacific and its tonic winds, the local phenomenon of dynamic pressure squeezing humidity out of the air whenever the temperature rises, as one wrings a sponge, thus eliminating possibility of muggy stifling weather; the familiar velvet cloud of California regularly appearing awhile in summer forenoon and screening off the sun's rays, the cool inward draughts of ocean air pouring eastward to replace the rising hot air of the deserts and interior valleys during the day, and the picturesque varied contour of Southern California with its mountains and valleys, foothills and passes, lying along the sea and inviting the air currents to constant activity. Some peaks are 11,000 feet high and perpetually snow-capped. The article was written by Howard S. Nichols of Los Angeles and is handsomely illustrated.

The wise girl never marries her ideal.

When a man places himself in the hands of his friends it behooves him to pick out a soft place to fall.

THE BRIDE AND BRIDEGROOM RECEIVED

We have known for a long time that Mr. Heikichi Naka, native of famous Kagashima, Japan, of Samuraid descent and family of good standing, was loving a winsome maiden of his native community. We knew, because he told us. We also knew because he saved his money carefully, mended his own clothes (perhaps because he was another victim of the suit case thief, at Los Angeles, and thereby lost all his good clothes), wasted no time, never went in debt, kept himself from all bad habits, cultivated his mind and heart, kept himself pure.

But his mother, anxious to see her son, refused to send the sweetheart, lest they be swallowed up in American interests and never return. Then he applied to his father, touching the heart of one who had probably been a lonely bachelor, and the father managed the matter, as men only can.

Mr. Naka's well-earned money, from our dirty houses and from our orange groves and weed patches, was sent for the sweetheart's transportation. And the two families across the sea prepared the prospective bride with all things their love could bestow.

The time came for starting and the father took her to the seaport, but alas! the ship she was to sail on had been wrecked on a cross-trip from China and was totally destroyed, baggage and all. She waited a month or two for another ship. Again she went to the seaport, but this time so many people were waiting to embark that the ship was full before her turn came. Then came another long waiting and Mr. Naka here was each time eagerly waiting for the newspaper announcement of her name as a passenger.

But finally she got aboard, the newspaper contained her name in the list of passengers, and the telegraph wires rang out the message, "She comes," and Mr. Naka hastened to San Francisco to receive his betrothed.

After the strict official examinations, by which ten women were returned to their native land because of some defects, Mr. Naka's maiden was pronounced perfect, and he wrote, "Dear My Mother Cammack: She has all right, everything, and is disembarked just now, and we'll go back day after tomorrow, and we'll go to Upland on Sunday. We are thanking God very much. Your Boy and Daughter."

The preparations began for the reception of the bride and groom for the late Japanese law requires that they be married at once in San Francisco, lest some danger come to the girl.

The Cammack home was made beautiful with Burbank daisies (whose meaning is "transformation," since Mr. Burbank evolved them from a roadside weed), and passion vines and blossoms, symbolizing the gift of Christ, who alone can change the hearts of men.

The Sunday school and teachers were invited, the bride's cake was prayerfully made, lest it fall, the preacher was here and all was ready.

The 10:28 train was met, but no bridal pair. The dinner must wait one hour for the 1 p. m. Pacific Electric. It came; they came. Ah, the suspense is over. Dinner over, Mr. and Mrs. Hartley took the guests and preacher to the Ninth street camp, Mr. Naka's former home, where they were welcomed and served with refreshments. At 3:30 p. m. all were back to the Cammack home for the formal reception.

"We Praise Thee," "Sunshine" and "Jesus Saves" were sung heartily, prayer was offered and Preacher Takata gave a short sermon on marriage from Eph. 5:20-30. Mrs. Cammack spoke from Rev. 19:8 of the church as the bride, waiting for Christ, her bridegroom, and that now and here, by our every day acts of love, we are preparing our wedding garments as we wait the bridegroom of our souls, for the Bible says, "And to her was granted that she should be arrayed in fine linen, clean and white, for the fine linen is the righteous acts of the saints."

Mr. Kijina gave an exhortation. He also served throughout as interpreter.

Mr. Shundo, boss of the Ninth street camp, made a speech and graciously presented the bridal bouquet, saying in part: "We are all hoping for the day when we too may have the mate for a sweet home."

Mr. Imonye, secretary of the Sunday school, and in his behalf presented silver spoons. Mrs. Reichard, in behalf of the home, presented silver spoon and knife, and Mrs. Lyons for the night school teachers, including Mr. Lyons and Miss Williams, presented a silver meat fork. That the bridal pair might have "where to lay their heads," Mrs. Cammack gave a cushion. Mr. Shundo in behalf of the camp, presented an envelope of cash, uncounted. Now the bridal cake was presented, and because of the modesty of the bride, Mr. Naka was bade to cut and serve it, while others served generous dishes of ice cream, furnished by the Sunday school.

A delightful social hour followed, pictures of bride and groom were taken and then of the guests. Later the guests of honor, laden with flowers and good wishes, were escorted to the Pacific Electric to return to Los Angeles, where Mrs. Naka will study English and sewing while Mr. Naka continues his work at the Gardena ranch where their home is prepared.

The bridegroom presented Mrs. Cammack sweet potato candy made and sent to her by his mother, and a Japanese kimono woven and made for her by his sister. Oriental generosity! How beautiful.

THE FOOTHILL FROSTLESS FRUIT COMPANY

It was Virgil, if we remember correctly, who said, "Locate your grove in the shadow of a mountain." If he had referred to the citrus groves of California when he delivered that wise remark, he never would have made a more truthful statement. It is now recognized that the place par excellence for the citrus grove is the foothill, both because of the splendid frost drainage there afforded and further because of the equalizing influence of the hills on the climate.

The Upland district is noted as a money maker among all the navel orange districts of Southern California. Close to a million dollars were distributed this year among the orange growers of that district and this year is not a particular exception for the Upland territory has produced consistently from the start. No doubt the cause of Upland's prosperity is its fortunate situation high up on the slope of the Cucamonga mountains. The frost has little chance to settle there, it slides off onto the lowlands of the valley. Immunity from frost usually means prosperity in the citrus districts and that certainly seems to be the case at Upland. The Pacific Electric railway serves this district and it is equipped with a splendid system of paved roads leading into the trunk highways. The famous Foothill boulevard from San Bernardino to Los Angeles passes right through it.

Among the prominent citrus features of the Upland district there is none of more promise than the 530 acre tract of the Foothill Frostless Fruit Company. This holding stands in the same relation to the rest of the district as the district stands to the valley. It is up hill all the way to this holding and the farther you go the safer it is. Situated as it is, right up against the mountain, its location is as fine as it is possible to get.

The owners of the Foothill Frostless Fruit Company, E. S. Gosney, J. B. Coulston and L. S. Porter, are gradually planting the property to lemons. Under the management of W. E. Jones, 210 acres have already been planted to Eureka lemons and 120 acres more will be planted this season. This will be followed with 100 acres a year until the whole 530 acres have been planted.

The water for irrigation is supplied by three wells on the property and is pumped to a million gallon reservoir from which it is distributed through the property in cement pipes and is distributed by the Keller-Thompson valve system. The water problem on this property can be said to be non-existent, when this simple plant is compared with some of the elaborate installations that are necessary at some of the other large lemon plantings.

The company raises its own nursery stock and special care is exercised in getting the very best buds obtainable. It is expected to keep tree performance records on the whole ranch. The trees are planted 130 to the acre. The rows are 21 feet apart, and every sixth row the space is 26 feet to allow plenty of room for wagons or tractors to haul out the fruit. The trees are 14 feet apart in the row. Neither pains nor expense are spared in operating the property on the most modern and scientific lines.

A modern lemon packing house will be built on the spur line of the Santa Fe railway, which runs through the property, as soon as the production justifies it. The company has provided for the superintendent an attractive bungalow, surrounded by a beautiful garden, and has also equipped the property with all the necessary bunk houses, barns and implement houses that are required.

The view from the ranch buildings over the vine clad fields and orange groves of the valley is of never ending delight. The whole valley of the Santa Ana lies before one like a gigantic relief map, with spots of green here and there marking the cultivated areas. From this point one can look down on the rest of the valleys in more ways than one. The owners of the Foothill Frostless Fruit Company are certainly to be congratulated on their investment. They have a big proposition which will in a few years take its place alongside the Limoneira and the Corona Foothill Lemon Company as one of the largest lemon properties of the state.—California Citrograph.

NOT REQUIRED

Many words of housewifely wisdom had her mother imparted to the fair young bride, on all subjects from managing husbands to tackling tramps. And some of them were now being put to the test.

He was a particularly dirty looking specimen, but he had told the tale with the pathos of an expert. The youthful house mistress felt touched, but determined to follow her mother's precepts.

"Now, my man," she said when he had finished. "I will give you something to eat if you will take that chopper—"

"Om, mum, I sha'n't need it," the tramp reassured her. "My teeth are all right!"

Riches used to take wings, but nowadays aeroplanes take riches.

A HOME FOR EACH SCHOOL TEACHER

The biggest, most universal scheme for social service in the history of America, one affecting every hamlet in the land, has been instituted by the National Lumber Manufacturers' association in the proposal to build a home for every rural school teacher in America.

California will be one of the first states where the plan will be carried into effect, and a thorough investigation of the conditions in this state preceded the announcement of the social service plans of the lumber manufacturers. The association has not as yet formulated its plans for pushing this new department of public service by actually assisting the schools of the nation to build homes for teachers, but work on this philanthropic enterprise is already under way and the association plans to have its plans ready for announcement in a few weeks. J. A. Freeman, Pasadena, and R. W. Landon, E. A. Selfridge, Jr., and George X. Wendling, all of San Francisco, leaders in the National Lumber Manufacturers' association, are among the most ardent advocates of the project, and the success of the building of such structures in a few isolated portions of their home state can convince them that it is a good social movement for the entire nation, as well as for California.

The plan to spread the gospel of homes for school teachers over the land was first broached only a few weeks ago at a conference of the directors of the association. It proved instantly popular. The idea was taken up by the United States Bureau of Education, and the first result of this cooperation between the lumbermen of the nation and the government itself is in the issuance of a brochure entitled "Teachers' Cottages," by R. S. Kellogg of Chicago, secretary of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association, in cooperation with the United States Bureau of Education, and which is being sent to every county superintendent of schools in America. The Rockefeller Foundation has already approved of the plan and is giving $25,000 to foster this work with more money to come.

The proposal to build these teachers' cottages all over the land follows out the idea that has already been carried into extensive success by the state of Washington. The national association has taken up this social service work in the belief that the education of the nation will be immensely advanced if the teachers of the nation's young are properly housed. The theory is that if teachers are provided with proper homes, the county districts will be able to secure better teachers, avoid the constant changes by which the schools are always in a torn-up condition. As Secretary Kellogg phrases it in his work, which constitutes a survey of the movement and its possibilities: "Under present circumstances, the teaching of a country school often becomes simply a temporary expedient for the teacher the first term after getting a certificate, and ambitious teachers who are anxious to grow in their profession, and make something of themselves, go to the city schools just as soon as possible, where living conditions are better. The country schools are always left with the largest proportion of young, inexperienced, poorly trained teachers."

Mr. Kellogg urges also that the teachers' cottages, or as he calls them, teacherages, should be models of sanitation, artistic, though inexpensive, and so constructed that they may be not only homes, but real social centers for the rural neighborhoods. In order to further this plan of properly caring for the teachers, the lumbermen's organization is ready to prepare plans to assist rural communities in providing their teachers with the kinds of homes which have proved satisfactory in Washington and in the more scattered localities where they have been built.

California is selected as one of the first states for the general introduction of this new idea of a teacher's cottage for every rural school, because though it has already made good progress, there is still vast room for improvement. "Believe plan a good one," Teacher of agriculture in San Jose high school is furnished a cottage free. "Excellent plan," Tamalpais Union high school will build a cottage for the janitor. San Mateo county has a small two-roomed cottage in the Tunis district built on the school lot because they could find no boarding place for their teacher. They employ a widow with four children. In Los Angeles county there are three cottages rented by the teachers and owned by the county, and five cottages rented by the janitors. San Diego county states that one of their greatest problems is the problem of board and lodging. Kern county reports four cottages and that the experiment is successful because conditions make it necessary.

Queer, isn't it, that the minute a chap gets married there's twice as many good looking girls on the streets as ever before.

Cucamonga

Rev. and Mrs. A. N. Gortner entertained the members of the Epworth League at their home Friday evening. The entertainment of the evening was original poems written by the guests. A great deal of undeveloped genius was discovered, some very undeveloped but most amusing. The prize, a volume of Rev. Gortner's poems, was won by Miss Sadi Smith, whose poem entitled "Cucamonga" was truly splendid. Mr. Gortner completed the program by reading an original poem, a most interesting and amusing prophesy of the futures of the guests thirty years hence. A most enjoyable evening was finished by refreshments. The Epworthians greatly enjoyed and appreciated the party.

Van Wagenen, Thursday, June 22. The next meeting will be a most entertaining program given by Mrs. A. W. Freeman and Mrs. Milner at Mrs. Horst's home, June 29. Each member is racking her brain to conceive some program which will be the best yet, so the Thursdays of this summer season will be looked forward to by the people interested.
